What is Search Engine Optimization (SEO)?

SEO is an abbreviation of Search Engine Optimization. This is the process of structuring a web page so that it is found, read, and indexed by search engines in the most effective manner possible.

Internet users find information using a search engines such as Google, Yahoo, or MSN. You go to their site, type in what you are looking for and usually find it in the first page of search engine results. What goes on behind the scenes of every internet search involves complex software intelligent enough to figure out which pages are the most relevant to your search. If you are looking to buy a product online, you will search for the product name and typically buy it from a company which matches your requirement from the first page results. Search Engine Optimization is the process of figuring out which search phrases, or “key words”, potential customers might use to find what you are offering, and then doing whatever is necessary to move to the top of the search results so that these searchers visit your site.

Good search engine optimization will do several things for your website. One, if you normally spend a good bit of money on advertising to market your website, you will find that after implementing our search engine optimization strategy that you will receive sufficient search engine results to discontinue or reduce much of your advertising expenses. SEO gives the best ROI for your traffic requirements.

Why do I need Search Engine Optimization?

Consider what it would be like if no one could easily find your place of business, or even your telephone number. Most businesses could not continue for long in such a situation. The same thing can happen with your web site if people cannot easily locate it. Potentially valuable customers never even know you are there.

Let us face facts, the easiest and quickest way to receive website traffic is from search engines. SEO can help you access a form of advertising that is cost effective and reaches millions of people interested in exactly what you have to offer. SEO is required for all businesses as your website can give you branding and business 24 hrs a day, 365 days in a year!!

SEO costs depend on the work involved, if we target competitive keywords, then lot of work is involved and results take time. The right solution is to target long tailed low competition keywords and later go for high competition keywords.
